GRAIN MEN WISH GOVERNMENT ABLE FIX HIGHER PRICE

In an interview relating to the guaranteed minimum price of 80 cents for wheat announced by the Dominion Government, C. E. Hayles, President of the North-West Grain Dealers' Association said:

"The members of the North-West Grain Dealers' Association are pleased to note that the Dominion Government has recognized the principle that, in the face of adverse international and national conditions, the economic position of the Western farmer is entitled to federal support, even at the risk of loss to the Dominion Treasury."

We wish, however, that the Dominion Government had been able to guarantee a higher price.

Golf Week in The Canadian Rockies

The Banff Springs Hotel's annual golf week is set for August 22-27, and the contest for the long list of cups and prizes will be waged in a mountain setting so beautiful as to make the old adage, keep your eye on the ball, doubly difficult of fulfillment.

Golf week at the Banff Springs Hotel will see many notable U.S. and Canadian amateurs with a sprinkling of British and European entrants, fighting it out for the Edward Prince of Wales trophy, put up by former King Edward VIII, and the Willington cup for men, Associated Screen News cup and the Brewster trophy and a host of other coveted awards for women.

As much as a social as a golfing event, Banff's golf week is the signal for a round of informal entertainment centred at the hotel, and Banff Springs hotel, beneath the terrace of which the great golf course winds down over the Spray River for 6,540 yards of unrivalled fairways and greens. A Wales Cup and views of the "golfer's hall" in the big hotel ballroom Saturday night brings the week to a close with presentation of cups and prizes.

The spectacular Banff Springs course has its fairways laid along the valley of the Bow River into which the rushing Spray dumps its green waters beneath the towering first ice. Unmatched for beauty, the course also ranks among the world's best for its length, trickiness and general smartness of design. Pictures above show the Edward Prince of Wales Cup and views of the "golfer's hall" in the big hotel ballroom Saturday night brings the week to a close with presentation of cups and prizes.

The "Wars" In The Orient

The very recent "open" appearance of Russia as a foe to Japan in the oriental war theatre on the borders of Manchukuo, Japanese puppet state, will set off a great deal of speculation as to whether the latest developments in the far east will eventually lead, and whether or not other European powers will later become involved.

If so, it is quite conceivable that the time will come, sooner or later, when Europe will again become the battleground between the major nations of the world, for it is quite on the cards that Russian intervention in the war between China and Japan constitutes but another step towards the maelstrom of another world wide imbroglio.

It is true that no state of war has yet been declared between Russia and Japan but borderlines there are becoming more frequent incidents more intense and, in fact, under the rules of modern warfare—or lack of them—it is quite possible for Russia and Japan to engage in a large scale conflict without any formal declaration of hostilities on either side.

Russia Has Memories

Russia, it might well be pointed out, has more than one reason for taking advantage of a weakened Japan if the Soviet, with one of the strongest armies in the world at her command, believes that her former opponent of 1905 is in a state of vulnerability. Russia has the memory of her defeat at the hands of the Nipponese in 1905 as an incentive, and as a further goal the more recent announcement (1933) of the pact between Germany, Italy and Japan, recently aimed against Communism and which Russia undoubtedly interpreted as a direct threat against herself.

No matter how slow may be the conquest of the war news from the scene of the Sino-Japanese conflict and no matter how conflicting and confusing may be the reports of the progress of the strife issued by both of the combatant armies in Japan and the Japanese, the Japanese are now playing a losing game and that the Chinese have everything in their favor in the type of warfare in which they are now indulging—a war of attrition.

As the Japanese lines of communication lengthen out, the guerilla tactics being adopted by the Chinese are likely to become more and more effective as time progresses. The Chinese themselves are fully alive to this and that, coupled with their fatalistic outlook, has much improved their morale since the war started. The attack on their country and the ruthless manner in which it is being prosecuted has performed wonders in unifying divided forces and this fact, fortified by the proverbial patience of the Chinese, gives them an advantage which becomes more apparent as the conflict becomes more protracted.

Japan's Economic Tension

Moreover, there are indications that the Japanese are approaching the day when their financial and credit sources will be stretched to the breaking point and the time appears to be not far distant when it will be impossible for them to continue a war of aggression in a foreign country because of inability to pay for needed materials and the impossibility of maintaining armies which are gradually stretching out further and further from supply bases.

Recent news items supply capital and verse for the assumption that the financial straits of the Japanese are becoming very acute. A country that finds it necessary to resort to rat skins for leather and to instruct its manufacturers to reduce the length of matches by .029 of an inch to yield sufficient revenue to keep the army in the field for one hour and five minutes by the savings of a whole year, must be in desperate economic plight.

Up to this impediments are to be added attacks on Russia on another flank on more frequent and more intensive scale, it is not difficult to see the ultimate outlook for Japanese power on the Asiatic mainland is gloomy indeed.

Morale At Hypothesis

Whether or not Italy or Germany may deem it expedient or advantageous, or both, to come to the aid of a distressed Japan in the event of Russian aggression becoming more pronounced, is a question difficult to answer, but it would not be difficult for either of these dictatorships, or both of them, to find a pretext for doing so, basing their action on the Italo-Germanic-Japanese agreement of 1935.

Numerically, at least, Russia has one of the largest, if not the largest, armies in the world to-day and in some respects, one of the best equipped. Possibly that fact, coupled with a show of real strength on Russia's western borders, might be a deterrent for any ambitions which Hitler or Mussolini might have in that quarter.

It is a reasonable assumption, however, if some of the European nations outside of Russia should become embroiled in the struggle in the Orient it would not be long before hostilities would be transferred to the European side and in such an event it is highly problematical how long it would be before other European powers would be drawn into the vortex.

A Superfluous Subject

A school teacher who asked a girl to buy a grammar received the following note from her mother: "I do not desire that my Matty engage in grammar and I prefer her to engage in more useful studies and can learn her to write and print by myself. I went through two grammars and can't say as they did me no good. I prefer activity to inactivity in geography and drawing and good vocal music on the piano."

As residents moved browns under a hot July sun, radiators in homes and offices in Scranton, Pennsylvania, suddenly began sizzling with steam heat. Witting citizens by the score seized telephones to demand an explanation. "Just testing," replied the superintendent of the central heating plant.

Crematory Butch Production

Central Saskatchewan was the heaviest producer of crematory butter during the first quarter of the year, with 713,200 pounds to its credit, according to a report of the dairy branch, Saskatchewan department of agriculture. The southern division produced 580,398 pounds and the northern, 539,472.

White Men Are Safe

Cannibals In Dutch New Guinea Prefer To Eat Their Relatives

A white man's life among Dutch New Guinea cannibals is quite non-existent because the cannibals prefer to eat their relatives. R. Dillen Ripley, 34, of the Academy of Natural Sciences, said.

Ripley returned from a stay among the cannibals, said nothing riles higher gastronomically than a relative who oversteers the bounds of propriety.

"The system," he said, "results in a minimum of bones and few thieves in the tribe."

It resulted in part from the Dutch government's attitude toward the consumption of white man and Chinese, he said.

"For instance," he continued, "let's suppose a tribesman steals from a fellow-tribesman his wife or some other personal possession. The victim lodges a complaint with the chief and the chief calls a council of assistant chiefs and priests. If they decide the most adequate is acute enough to warrant drastic punishment, the offender is invited to a big blow-out."

"The victim," he said, "is about to be barbecued. He dances with the rest of them and the only indication of the unusual honor to be bestowed on him is a gathering of the fowls on his neck."

"When the dancing ends, the unfortunate is killed with specially selected poisons and divided. The guests then roast him to individual taste."

Clever Narcotics Gang

Prayer Books Hollowed Out To Hold Snuggled Drugs

Holy books alleged to be used in the drug traffic led to the arrest in Paris of a self-designated "grand rabbi" from Brooklyn and pointed the way to what was expected to be the round-up of a clever New York narcotics gang.

Held in State prison is Isaac Leifer, who told authorities he had been in New York, once presided over a synagogue in Brooklyn, and Hermann Herin was the gang's accomplice.

Herin worth $20,000 was seized. For months, according to agents of the Sure Generale, Leifer and Herin have been passing on the streets of New York, French police have been watching Leifer for some time, and the books he posted were all traced to their addresses in America.

He told the book-binders who made the special bindings that they intended to hold in stock and five minutes in Jerusalem. He and Gottlieb, a Hungarian, were nabbed just after registering another set of books at the post office.

Old Fort Henry

Interesting Ceremony Dedicating Bastille To Cause Of Peace

Old Fort Henry, which for 100 years has guarded Kingston's harbor, has been dedicated recently was dedicated by Prime Minister Mackenzie King to the cause of peace.

Since in 1835, it was planned to defend this country against attack from United States. Now it has become an instrument, not of war, but to increase the friendship of the two nations.

For over a generation this once mighty fortress had been neglected and fell into ruin. Through the co-operation of the Dominion and the Ontario government, its walls have been renewed and the old gun installed on their original foundations.

In the historic parade, with a multitude of people occupying the battlements and every vantage point of the fort, Canada's prime minister traced the growth of Canada, from first by wars with foreign countries, then torn by political and racial differences within itself, and how these had all been reconciled.

He paid tribute to the men who have been able to "reconcile their differences and make a great Canada of people united from one end of Canada to the other."

A Means Of Defence

Britain Plans Gigantic Smoke Screen To Hide Thames Estuary

Great Britain's Air Raid Precautions Department is planning to try blotting out the mouth of the Thames River, essential landmark on the air route to London from the continent, by a gigantic smoke screen as a means of defence against air raids expected to feature the next war, says Science Service.

Successful use of smoke-screens at sea, to blot out whole fleets and the large amount of smoke from anti-aircraft planes are able to generate indicate the feasibility of the plan, the United Services Review, England's national defence technical journal, believes.

"If the Thames estuary could be effectively blotted out it would amount to the removal of the main sign-post on the way to London for invaders, and three serious doubts why the smoke-screen should be for use at sea only," the journal declares. London is situated a short distance up the Thames river.

"Within measure the smoke would be controllable and could be so directed as to prevent any risk for our own patrolling aircraft when they come in to land."

Need Better Wheat

Says Canadian Wheat Has Deteriorated In Quality

While wheat production of other countries have steadily improved the quality of their strains, Canadian wheat has deteriorated in quality to what it was years ago, A. T. Sinclair of Winnipeg, assistant director of Canada's crop testing plan, warned Alberta farmers.

Seven years' study under the plan has shown that 38 per cent. of the wheat grown in western Canada was from mixed strains. Four or five per cent. of the farmers didn't know what variety of wheat they were growing, he said.

"The varieties in a mixture ripen at different times and raise the problem of when to harvest for best results," he said. "With a mixture the farmer gets a lower yield and grade and less money for his crop."

The testing plan, he said, was sponsored by eight western grain companies, assisted by the federal and provincial departments of agriculture, the three prairie universities and schools of agriculture.

Sir Charles Tappan Has Had Many Thrills During His Career

A thrilling career could be written on the career of Sir Charles Tappan, who has returned to London after a six months' visit to Palestine, during which he has advised the Government on the suppression of terrorism. When he was Chief of the Calcutta Police, he seemed to bear a charmed life. In 1923 a revolutionary killed another Englishman in mistake for him; in 1928 he led his forces against a mob of armed students, and escaped unhurt. In 1930 bombs were thrown at his car, and again he escaped unscathed.

One of his most successful devices was to arm the fire brigade as a counter-measure against motorcar robbery. The result was that in a fire alarm immediately a robbery took place, and within a few weeks the bandits had given up the game.

Science Helping To Combat Disease Among Farm Horses

The problem of Equine Encephalomyelitis, a disease of horses now prevalent in the Prairie Provinces, has attracted intensive research by the Health of Animals Division, Science Service, Dominion Department of Agriculture. Experiments are in progress at the Animal Diseases Research Institute relating to means of producing immunity to the disease. The results so far are very encouraging and at present show conclusively that a vaccine prepared from the virus propagated upon the chick embryo is capable of conferring a solid immunity in experimental animals. These animals, after receiving "chick" vaccine have withstood severe experimental infections with the living virus and remained quite healthy, whereas the unvaccinated control animals invariably died from the infection and disease.

These experiments were made simultaneously with others in which horse-brain vaccine was used and compared. The horse-brain vaccine proved ineffective in immunizing laboratory animals. The vaccination experiments are now being repeated on horses.

Having regard to the outbreak of encephalomyelitis in Western Canada and to the results of laboratory experiments upon small animals, it is believed that the morphological chick vaccine will probably confer a high degree of immunity to the disease in horses, and can be recommended for extended use.

Comparison of the chick vaccine and the horse-brain vaccine shows the superiority of the former, and it is a good reason to believe that if widely used in areas where the disease is occurring it will prove an effective means of prevention and of modifying or controlling outbreaks.

Must Place Greater Area On Irrigation, If Alberta Would Boost Population

Need Stable Income For Farmer, Says U. S. Expert

PRICE JUSTIFIED (CALGARY HERALD)

Alberta's irrigation system must be expanded, preferably with federal or provincial aid, if the population of the province is to expand, declared Mr. C. O. Crane, of the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation, who has returned to Denver, Colorado, after a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Crane of Calgary.

While in Alberta, Mr. Crane made a study of the drought area and of irrigation projects at the present in operation.

"The time is past for the farmer to remain a victim of all the elements," said Mr. Crane. "He must have a sure and a stable income which will provide him with a standard of living such as the agriculturist deserves in this primarily agricultural nation."

There is ample land to provide for an almost unlimited population, "he continued, "but the supply of water will eventually control crop production and food supply. For this reason the wide and efficient use and development of irrigation water is an all important factor in the growth of the western prairie provinces. For the same reason, any irrigation development which may occur, should be sponsored and supervised by the national government, in order to obtain the best conservation and greatest use of the water."

NEEDED IN SOUTH
 Irrigation was evidently desirable in Southern Alberta, said Mr. Crane, but the method of financing it had not yet been decided and to date had proved very difficult.

"A sound, economical and efficient irrigation system should be a valuable national asset," he declared "and much work while enough so that the government would be justified in either financing the system entirely, or backing a bond sale."

In the past much of the financial burden has been thrown on the farmer," he continued. "Local merchants and dealers also benefit by the installation of irrigation systems and should pay accordingly. The sale of electrical power also may be made to cover a large portion of the construction costs. Municipal water systems often use water from the reservoir, and can afford to pay a higher rate than can the farmer."

It is possible for a small per centage of the costs to be charged to numerous items such as river regulation, flood control, erosion prevention, propagation of fish and the like," explained Mr.

Crane, "The construction of dams, canals and a diversion works provides an excellent opportunity for obtaining some national returns from relief expenditures."

CUT FARMERS' COSTS

"It has been found that by a fair and equitable distribution of expenditures that the farmer has less than 50 per cent of the total cost to pay," he said.

"This 50 per cent of costs should be distributed uniformly over a period of 30 years, according to the acre-foot of water used, and should bear a small but reasonable rate of interest."

"Irrigation not only provides the necessary additional moisture, but it eliminates many of the obnoxious insects, such as grasshoppers, which can thrive only under dry conditions," said Mr. Crane. "Less summer fallow is necessary when moisture is plentiful, which results in less destruction by winds."

Turner Valley Proration Benefits Oil Consumers

Proration regulation in the Turner Valley oil fields is a benefit to consumers apart from its desirability in the interest of sharing the market.

It is a physical fact that if wells are run wide open, it is not possible to make a large recovery of oil, as if they were held down. Naturally the consumer is interested in having a continuous supply of oil at low prices.

If, for instance, the wells of Turner Valley were to run wide open, the temperature in the oil bearing rocks would rapidly decline. It is another geological fact that there is a lot of wax in Turner Valley oil. In the process of cooling it would congeal and block the tiny rock pores through which the oil oozes to the foot of the well.

Once this happened, great quantities of oil would be placed beyond recovery. Heavy economies would follow for both producers and consumers.

Farmers Busy Harvesting

Harvesting has commenced in earnest with the binders and combines humming.

Local elevators have received quite a number of loads of this seasons crop, which is grading good and running from 12 to 30 bushels per acre.

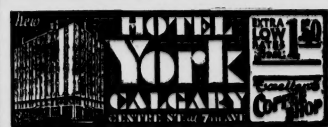

The continued warm weather has matured the crop quickly this year, and farmers are making every effort to speed up the work with their baby combines and fast stepping engines. With continued favorable weather farmers will make a big swath in the district fields.

Canadian tourists visiting the United States have been granted an important concession by the customs authorities south of the border.

Now, through regulations brought in to effect last month, Canadian motorists will be granted exemption from the requirement of posting a bond if they wish to remain in the United States during a period up to six months.

Official word of the new regulations giving exemption to Canadian motorists has been received by Officials of the Alberta Motor Association from the Canadian Automobile Association, with which the A. M. A. is affiliated.

Request for the exemption was made by a number of Canadian motor clubs.
